

COMING PLANS FOR CAMPAIGN ARE OUTLINED

Rival Managers Making Ready for Three Cor- nered Contest

Washington, July 23.—Rival managers in the triangular contest for the presidency are perfecting plans for the coming campaign.

Speaking drives will start after Labor day, it was announced. Republican campaign plans are undergoing a complete revision at the hands of President Coolidge and Chairman William H. Butler of the Republican national committee. Democratic managers in conference with Clem L. Shaver, prospective chairman of the Democratic national committee, are rapidly working out the details of the intensive speaking tours to be made by John W. Davis, and the independent campaign, headed by Senator La Follette, has begun to take form, including the selection of the committee of 11, which will determine the conduct of the fight.

The unexpected strength which the independent move seems to be gathering is causing the rival managers to make many shifts in their programs. One change calls for expanding the speaking program for President Coolidge. It had been planned to have him make not more than six speeches outside of Washington. Now it seems certain that he will accept invitations to speak in at least a dozen cities in key positions over the country, as far as the northwest, and perhaps one on the Pacific coast.

The Democrats intend to stage a desperate fight throughout the east, particularly in New York, with its 45 electoral votes. They are counting on Governor Al Smith being prevailed upon to reconsider his decision not to run for re-election as governor of New York. Neither is the east being overlooked by the independents. Senator Wheeler, La Follette's running mate, will open his nationwide speaking trip in New York, and La Follette is expected to make several speeches in the east.

Chairman Butler of the Republican national committee issued this statement: "Our friendly enemies desire to make this, as some of them have termed it, a campaign based on the personality of the candidates. We will not be ready. If they desire to base their election on pledges or party records, we will not be disturbed."

Butler also announced that a branch office of the party's national headquarters would probably be opened in New York, west to supplement the national headquarters in Chicago. Those in charge of Senator La Follette's campaign for president plan to let voters know, well in advance of election day, which congressional candidates they favor. They are to make determined efforts to increase the strength of the insurgent blocs in the house and senate. Senators and representatives who have been in accord with La Follette policies and are up for re-election will be given "liberal" candidates in the field against members of the senate and house whom the followers of the Wisconsin senator classify as "reactionary."

The acceptance speech of John W. Davis, Democratic nominee, will be brief, it is said. His idea now is to cover the field generally, with emphasis on the more important issues of the day, such as honesty in government, foreign affairs, taxes and tariff and farm relief. The occasion requires the discussion of so many subjects that Mr. Davis can not make his speech as brief as he would like.

FAIR OFFICIALS AND BIBLE STUDENTS IN BATTLE OVER GRASS

Columbus, July 23.—Conferees today between the governing board of the International Bible Students association here and state fair officials were expected to result in an amicable settlement of a dispute over the grass at the fairgrounds where the convention is being held.

With the state fair only a few weeks distant, it is said that the grass at the fairgrounds is being trampled down by the Bible students and that it would be in no condition for the fair. The controversy broke when the State Fair Manager Lewis threatened to send police to keep the conventioners off the grass.

This step did not meet the approval of the Bible student leaders and it is said, they countered by threatening to move the convention to Cedar Point. Meanwhile the convention goes on, with eight lectures scheduled for today.

JACK DOLLY MARRIED
London, July 23.—Jack Dolly, brother of the Dolly sisters, was married today to Miss Velma Deance, former English show girl, after a three day engagement.

REPORTS TO KING
Madrid, July 23.—General Primo Rivera, head of the Spanish dictatorship, left today for San Sebastian to report to the king on his tour of the scene of the Moroccan campaign.

PROBE OF FATAL ACCIDENT ON STEAMER IS ORDERED

New York, July 23.—With the number of dead officially placed at four, the steamboat inspectors today began an inquiry to determine the responsibility for the commission of the passenger steamship Boston and tanker Swift Arrow, off Point Judith, R. I., Monday night in a dense fog.

The search was made this morning in the wreckage of the liner but officials were certain all passengers had been accounted for.

The dead:

Mrs. Oscar Green, actress, Brooklyn, N. Y.

C. O. Copeland, Brookline, Mass.

Robert P. Schlemm, of Fearing, Whiton and Company, cotton goods, New York.

John P. Schlemm, brother of Robert and connected with the same firm.

The number of injured probably will never be known as the survivors and twenty six passengers were brought to New York, the Plymouth left 130 at Fall River and the Commonwealth took 40 to Newport.

Passenger said today that those who lost their lives, with the exception of Copeland, who died after being treated for injuries, were asleep in their staterooms and never knew what hit them. Eight cabins were demolished when the tanker struck the Boston. Some passengers said the shock was terrific, others said it seemed merely a "bump."

CANDIDATES OF INDEPENDENT PARTY.

Here are pictured U. S. Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, and U. S. Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, of Montana, who bolted their parties and are running independently for the Presidency and Vice-Presidency on a progressive platform.

SLAYER OF INFANT SENTENCED TO FIVE YEARS IMPRISONMENT

London, July 23.—Charles Welford Travis, Brooklyn, N. Y. student, found guilty yesterday of manslaughter in killing his ten months old baby, was today sentenced to five years imprisonment.

Justice Spearman, who sentenced Travis, said he had evidence before him, which was not made public, indicating that while the prisoner was a man of exceptional intelligence, he was subject to a criminal impulse.

"There's no question but that he is perfectly sane," said the court. "The home office can, if it desires, consider the prisoner's mental state and his liability to criminal impulse."

The court said the jury found Travis did not kill his child purposely, but did so owing to a criminal impulse and under the circumstances, because of the great cruelty in committing the crime, the court should only consider the question of law and not the question of criminal impulse.

ADMINISTRATION IS ATTACKED BY DAVIS

Columbus, O., July 23.—An attack upon the present administration featured by citations for alleged non-filment of campaign pledges, marked the address of former Governor Harry L. Davis, candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination here last night.

Davis warned that if he is nominated "kid glove" methods will be shelled and his Democratic opponent will have the opportunity of thrashing out differences on the same platform with Davis.

Two Escape From Jail.

Akron, O., July 23.—Police are holding Mrs. Irene Harrison, 20, on a suspicion charge in connection with the manipulation of a successful break from the city jail, in which two men, one of them Mrs. Harrison's husband, escaped. William Harrison, 25, wanted in Ogden, Utah, on a charge of insulting bad checks, and Walter Williams, 24, of Pittsburgh, held here on a charge of grand larceny, were those to escape.

To Boost Car Fare.

Toledo, July 23.—Effective Aug. 3, streetcar passengers will be compelled to pay a higher fare, the price of ticket fares advancing from four for 30 cents to seven tickets for 55 cents, President Ben Adams of the Community Traction company announced. The cash fare now is 8 cents.

Said to Have Slain Father.

Hudson, Wis., July 23.—In an alleged confession Walter Kruger is said by authorities to have admitted killing his father with an iron bar, because "he was always swearing around the house." The body was found buried in an abandoned hog pen.

NAMED FOR CARPENTER

Mansfield, O., July 23.—The board of education of Mansfield voted last night to change the name of the West First Street school building to the Frank G. Carpenter school in honor of the memory of this world traveler who attended this school when a boy.

GIVEN ORDER TO DECENTRALIZE STEEL INDUSTRY

U. S. Steel Must Abandon Pittsburgh Plus System

Washington, July 23.—An order that may decentralize the steel industry was issued by the federal trade commission.

The United States Steel corporation was directed by the commission to abandon the Pittsburgh plus system of determining the price of steel.

The Pittsburgh plus plan was held by the commission to be an unfair method of competition. The practice was found to be a violation of the federal trade commission act and further to constitute a means of price discrimination in violation of the Clayton act. The commission charged that the system is contrary to the public interest and not based on the law of supply and demand, is a price-fixing system, and that it is made possible by the alleged domination of the steel industry by the steel corporation. It also was held that the Pittsburgh plus system lessens and eliminates competition, retards business in all steel centers except Pittsburgh, and adds greatly to the cost of steel products.

The Pittsburgh plus system is the method by which the United States Steel corporation and its subsidiaries quote prices on rolled steel products manufactured by and shipped from their plants outside Pittsburgh at a Pittsburgh base price plus an amount equivalent to what the freight charge would be from that city. The commission, in its order, forbade the steel corporation or its subsidiaries from quoting any steel price without listing separately the price of the steel and the transportation charge.

The commission believes that the effect of its order will be the building up of all steel producing and consuming sections outside of Pittsburgh; the return to the western and southern steel users of natural advantage of their location; decentralization of the steel industry and industries using steel products, and will enforce price competition among the steel producers.

BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION BOASTS MILLION MEMBERS

Cleveland, July 23.—Total membership of Ohio building and loan associations is now 1,375,968 and total assets are $648,160,960.

This was revealed in the annual report of H. F. Cellarius of Cincinnati, national secretary of the United States League of Local Building and Loan associations, in session here.

Pennsylvania made the largest increase in assets during the last fiscal year, with a total increase of $121,000,000. Ohio was second with an increase of $83,812,433. The greatest increase in membership during the past year was shown by Ohio, with 206,140 new members.

Building and loan companies in the United States advanced more than $1,250,000,000 last year on mortgage security towards the building of homes throughout the country. "Assuming that the average loan made was about $3,500," Mr. Cellarius said, "our associations financed approximately 360,000 homes."

LIGHT PLANT HEAD IS ELECTROCUTED

Mansfield, O., July 23.—Guy T. Brokaw, 50, superintendent of the Electric Light plant at Plymouth, was instantly killed late Tuesday when 13,000 volts of electricity passed through his body. He was supervising the erection of a tower. He poked an iron pipe into a hole to plumb it, in drawing the pipe from the hole, it came in contact with three high tension wires. Brokaw is survived by his wife and one son.

BRITISH OFF

Tokio, July 23.—A. Stuart MacLaren, British round the world flyer and his three companions, hopped off today at 7 o'clock from Tokolon bay for Muru Kamu bay.

Embezzlement Alleged.

Columbus, July 23.—Governor Donahy called upon the governor of Michigan to deliver to Ohio authorities Ralph Wilson, former Columbus automobile dealer, now in Detroit, wanted on a charge of embezzlement in connection with the sale of alleged worthless oil stock.

Indorse La Follette.

New York, July 23.—Representatives of 300,000 trade unionists and Socialists, meeting here, endorsed the presidential ticket of Senator La Follette, with his running mate, Senator Wheeler. The delegates, numbering 450, announced they expected to raise $500,000 for the La Follette campaign.

TRIAL TO PROVE GUILT OF LEOPOLD AND LOEB OPENED IN CHICAGO

GUARD COMPANIES PR EVENT LYNCHING OF SUSPECTS TAKEN AFTER MURDER OF GIRL

Mound City, Ill., July 23.—Company K, 13th Infantry of Illinois National Guard, arrived here early today from Cairo.

The military immediately placed heavy detachments around the jail in front of which shortly before midnight more than 1,000 persons from Cairo, Mounds, Mound City, Carbondale, Herrin and other southern Illinois cities, had gathered with the evident intent of storming the jail and lynching several negroes held in the murder of a 16 year old girl.

Divorced Wife Re-Won by Stanley Field.

MRS. SARA C. B. FIELD.

Mrs. Sara Carol Brown Field and her former husband, Stanley Field, nephew of the late Marshall Field, divorced two years ago, have been remarried in Chicago. Mrs. Field was one of the three famous Brown sisters of Baltimore. Mr. Field secured the divorce on the ground she refused to live with him. It is believed the pleas of their three daughters brought them back together.

BRAZILIAN SHIP IS BEING SHELLED BY REBEL BATTERIES

London, July 23.—Rebel batteries have been shelling the Brazilian battleship Minas Geraes in the harbor of Santos, according to wireless messages relayed here from steamships in Brazilian waters. The message said 20,000 troops were besieging Sao Paulo.

Dispatches from International News Service correspondent yesterday said planes flew over Santos Monday and dropped pamphlets and other revolutionary literature on the city and the Minas Geraes. The London dispatch indicates bombs may have been substituted for pamphlets as news from the battle area has indicated the rebels have land batteries close to Santos.

Washington, July 23.—The heaviest fighting of the Sao Paulo revolution took place on Sunday, according to advices received by the state department from Brazil. Current reports at Sao Paulo state that the killed and injured total 3,000 civilians, but no Americans are included in these casualties, the advices continued.

Dispatches from Buenos Ayres say the federal forces started a heavy bombardment of rebel positions in Sao Paulo City Sunday. The federal troops, reinforced until they number more than 25,000, are encircling Sao Paulo City and have brought up big batteries of heavy artillery. Thousands of refugees have fled from Sao Paulo City into the interior, and toward Santos, which is calm.

All railroads leading into Sao Paulo City have been cut and the famous coffee capital now is beleaguered on practically all sides. Big American packing plants in Sao Paulo, including the $20,000,000 Armour plant built during the world war, are reported undamaged.

The revolutionary regime in Sao Paulo, Brazil, has issued a manifesto declaring fighting must continue until President Bernades agrees to resign and full suffrage is re-established.

Embezzlement Alleged.

Columbus, July 23.—Governor Donahy called upon the governor of Michigan to deliver to Ohio authorities Ralph Wilson, former Columbus automobile dealer, now in Detroit, wanted on a charge of embezzlement in connection with the sale of alleged worthless oil stock.

Indorse La Follette.

New York, July 23.—Representatives of 300,000 trade unionists and Socialists, meeting here, endorsed the presidential ticket of Senator La Follette, with his running mate, Senator Wheeler. The delegates, numbering 450, announced they expected to raise $500,000 for the La Follette campaign.

Murphysboro, Ill., July 23.—Sheriff I. J. Hudson, who arrived here shortly after midnight with two negro suspects whom he had spirited away from the Mound City Illinois jail when a mob commenced to gather there, continued on to Chester, Ill., where he expected to place the negroes in the southern Illinois penitentiary for safe-keeping.

Chicago, July 23.—Suspected of slaying Miss Daisy Wilson, 18, in an attempted holdup of her father's store at Villa Ridge, Ill., two negroes were taken to the county jail at Mounds for safekeeping. They opened fire on Wilson and a bullet killed the daughter. A mob of several hundred men, apparently intent on a lynching, was quieted when H. F. Moreland, a Ku Klux Klan organizer, spoke and prayed in front of the city hall. Several in the crowd were deputized by Sheriff I. J. Hudson to guard the prisoners. At first the slain girl's father, J. H. Wilson, who, himself was severely beaten, was not certain that the negroes were the assailants. He became more positive in his identification, however, when a neighbor said they were the same negroes he had seen loitering in the vicinity.

"BATTLING BOB"

IS CAUSING DAVIS

PLENTY OF WORRY

Dark Harbor, Islesboro, Maine, July 23.—The entrance of Robert La Follette, independent presidential candidate into the political arena was furnishing John W. Davis, with food for mental contemplation as the Democratic party candidate continued compiling advance notes for his acceptance speech amid the tranquil surroundings of Seven Hundred Acre Island here.

Homers S. Cummings, Democratic national committeeman from Connecticut, visited Davis and they talked over the general campaign.

It was learned that the subject of "battling Bob" underlies a good portion of the conversation.

Cummings admitted that the Wisconsin candidate had complicated the political horizon of the Democrats on his campaign speeches to influence the subject matter of the Davis acceptance speech.

La Follette's entry into the presidential situation has changed the aspect of the campaign Cummings declared. He said he was making it his particular business to study the effect of the La Follette candidacy on both parties.

Commenting on his acceptance speech Davis said he was going to lean mercy in the address, depending on his campaign speeches to convert the rival candidates.

The Democratic standard bearer discussed the radio connection with the coming campaign. He declared the radio would change American political campaigns and was going to make speeches shorter.

Clarence Darrow, chief counsel for the defense, explained why he entered the plea of guilty. "It was the only logical thing for us to do," the famous defense attorney said. "Those boys are not fit to mingle in society. Their parents are agreed that their sons should be confined. The defense never did and does not now, of course, have any desire to set them free."

State's Attorney Crowe opened the state's case with an explanation of what he will seek to establish. It was a lengthy statement. He will summon one after another of his witnesses to relate from the witness stand all the events of the kidnapping and killing of Robert Franks.

Drs. James Whitney Hall and William A. White of Washington, Dr. Karl Bowman of Boston and Dr. Ralph Hamill are among the mental experts who will take the stand for the defense.

Jacob Franks, father of the slain boy, expressed the hope that the plea of guilty did not mean the slayers would escape actual criminal prosecution. He visited the state's attorney's office after he heard first reports of the action of the defense. "It means something, perhaps, when they admit their guilt," he said. "Now, if ever there was a case on earth demanding the death penalty, it is this one. I have been of the opinion from the start that these boys should be put to death. This talk of insanity is all nonsense."

KIWANIS MEMBERS

ENJOY PICNIC ON

C. A. KELBLE LAWN

Sixty guests, including members of the Xenia Kiwanis Club and their wives enjoyed a picnic dinner and informal program on the spacious lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Kelble, West Church Street, Tuesday evening.

The tables were arranged on the lawn in the form of the letter "K" and were appointed with the club colors, blue and white. Delicious viands were furnished from well-filled baskets of the guests.

After dinner, Mrs. Charles Adair had charge of the musical program, the feature of the evening. She sang "An Old Fashioned Garden" and added novelty to the song by singing an impromptu verse to several of the club members. Several men were chosen to take part in an "Orchestra" and were furnished combs upon which they became adept.

A charming number "Just a Love Nest" was sung by Mrs. Adair, and during the song a tiny bungalow was lighted, illustrating the theme of the song.

The program closed with an announcement by the Rev. W. H. Tilford, concerning the Chautauqua program this week.

Firpo to Meet Wills.

New York, July 23.—Luis Angel Firpo, Argentine heavyweight boxer, signed a contract for his bout with Harry Wills. The contract provides that the fight shall not be held before Aug. 30 and that Firpo must meet no other fighter until he boxes Wills. Firpo said he was considering White Sulphur Springs at Saratoga, and Summit, N. J., as sites for his training camps.

Newark, O., July 23.—Former Councilman Clarence Fulke is the new service director, succeeded by Charles Taylor, who was discharged by W. H. N. Stevens, Republican Klan mayor. Mayor Stevens declined to comment on the discharge of Taylor.

DISPOSITION OF MURDERERS TO HANG ON RESULT

Court Must Give Verdict Of Death Or Jail Sentence

Chicago, July 23.—The hearing to determine the mental responsibility of Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, confessed slayers of 14-year-old Robert Franks, opened before Judge Caverly today, with an array of witnesses called by both sides.

It is expected that more than three weeks will be consumed for the hearing. State's Attorney Crowe, in his opening statement today, said he intends to present every bit of evidence collected by the state just as if a jury was hearing the case. The prosecution, which demands the gallows for the two university students, who said they killed for experiment, plans to examine 100 witnesses. The defense, hoping for a life sentence, expects to submit testimony of alienists regarding the mental responsibility of the youths. Only evidence tending to mitigate their punishment can be submitted to the court.

State's Attorney Crowe announced he would summon the bereaved parents, and almost at the same moment Attorney Benjamin Bachrach of defense counsel said he would call the two youths and their parents.

The court has four alternatives: a sentence of death, a sentence of life imprisonment, a sentence of 14 years imprisonment or a sentence of any number of years over 14. The hearing will be exactly like a trial, except that since the boys have already admitted their guilt, there will be no jury and the arguments of the state and defense will be presented to the court only for the purpose of affecting the degree of the sentence.

Clarence Darrow, chief counsel for the defense, explained why he entered the plea of guilty. "It was the only logical thing for us to do," the famous defense attorney said. "Those boys are not fit to mingle in society. Their parents are agreed that their sons should be confined. The defense never did and does not now, of course, have any desire to set them free."

State's Attorney Crowe opened the state's case with an explanation of what he will seek to establish. It was a lengthy statement. He will summon one after another of his witnesses to relate from the witness stand all the events of the kidnapping and killing of Robert Franks.

Drs. James Whitney Hall and William A. White of Washington, Dr. Karl Bowman of Boston and Dr. Ralph Hamill are among the mental experts who will take the stand for the defense.

Jacob Franks, father of the slain boy, expressed the hope that the plea of guilty did not mean the slayers would escape actual criminal prosecution. He visited the state's attorney's office after he heard first reports of the action of the defense. "It means something, perhaps, when they admit their guilt," he said. "Now, if ever there was a case on earth demanding the death penalty, it is this one. I have been of the opinion from the start that these boys should be put to death. This talk of insanity is all nonsense."

HARPER SAYS HE

WELCOMES PROBE

Columbus, July 23.—Welfare Director Harper promised co-operation in the event that State Auditor J. T. Tracy decides to make an investigation of the purchase by the department of public welfare of the plant of the Tri-County Brick company at Roseville, Muskingum county.

In sending the request for a vouchers for $35,000 in full payment for the plant to the state auditor, Director Harper sent a letter in which he stated he had read of the probable intentions of the state auditor to hold up the voucher until an investigation had been made as to whether the state had been "stung," as charged by the Republican state committee press department. "Such an investigation upon your part, or made by those you deem qualified to pass upon the property, meets with my approval, and I think that in view of the charges made by the Republican state committee there should be no delay in the same, should you so decide."

New Service Director.

Newark, O., July 23.—Former Councilman Clarence Fulke is the new service director, succeeded by Charles Taylor, who was discharged by W. H. N. Stevens, Republican Klan mayor. Mayor Stevens declined to comment on the discharge of Taylor.

KELLER TO STAND TRIAL-HEERY AND BONE ARE RELEASED

William Heery and Earl Bone, indicted by the Grand Jury Monday on one count each for burglary, were given indefinite suspended sentences to Ohio Reformatory at Mansfield, by Judge R. L. Gowdy in Common Pleas Court Wednesday morning.

Both youths pleaded guilty to the indictments when arraigned Tuesday. Karl Keller, indicted on three counts for burglary, pleaded not guilty to each indictment Tuesday and his trial has been set down for July 31.

William Stryder, indicted on two counts for burglary, also pleaded guilty when arraigned Tuesday but sentence in his case has been deferred. It is expected sentence will not be passed until after the trial of Keller. The four youths were arrested on the burglary charges last week and all are said to have signed confessions admitting to Prosecutor J. K. Williamson, participation in one or more burglaries.

Keller, who pleaded not guilty and will stand trial, is said to have signed a confession admitting fourteen burglaries in Xenia, Jamestown, Bellbrook, Spring Valley, Martinsville and Waynesville last winter. Stryder is said to have been involved in thirteen of the same burglaries while Heery and Bone were only connected with one each.

James Wilson, colored, indicted Monday for assault, was fined $25 and costs when he pleaded guilty to the indictment Tuesday. Wilson is said to have participated in a shooting scrape in front of Police Headquarters last week with Salvin E. Williams, Dayton, in which Wilson was shot once in each hand. Wilson and Williams were bound over on charges of shooting with intent to wound but the Grand Jury ignored the case against Williams and indicted Wilson only for assault.

John A. Smith, indicted Monday for larceny in connection with the theft of a quantity of meat from the Compton farm, Cincinnati pike last winter, was to be arraigned on the indictment Wednesday.

COWMEN "LIKKEK UP" ON NUT SUNDAES.

REAL DRUG STORE COWBOYS, INT.

Gone are the days when a he-man from the great open spaces, where men are men, could leave the round up, ride into town with two guns, "likker up" at the "Last Chance" saloon, and shoot up the village. It's tough on the cowboys, but it's tougher on the nut sundaes. Look at these two virile cowmen at the annual Frontier Day Celebration at Cheyenne, Wyo., trying to inhale a nut sundae through a straw and remain virile. And this is the State where Buffalo Bill once lived.

WEATHERMAN KIND AS CHAUTAUQUA OPENS WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON ON EAST CHURCH ST.

Everything was in readiness for the opening of the Redpath Chautauqua at Church and Whitman Streets, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, according to George M. Dowler, superintendent, who is in Xenia supervising the opening.

The afternoon program will be featured by the DiGiorgio Orchestra. The orchestra will play again Wednesday evening, followed by a lecture by Judge George D. Alden, on "Jack and the Beanstalk."

The evening program will open Wednesday at 8:30 o'clock. This time is subject to change, depending on the sentiment of the first-night audience.

The program this year is unusual according to the Rev. William H. Tilford. Two plays "Give and Take," which will be presented Thursday evening, and "The Meanest Man In The World," next Monday afternoon are exceptional attractions, it is said. Other numbers bring the program this year well above the average it is stated.

The morning programs for children will open Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. All the morning children's programs will be free with the exception of next Tuesday, when the Duval Brothers will give a magic program and when an admission of thirty-five and twenty cents will be charged.

"I always find in the Judge a foe-man worthy of my most carefully honed steel," once said Strickland Gilliland, well known humorist, in speaking of Judge Alden, who addresses Chautauqua on the first day. Yet Alden is not primarily a humorist. He merely possesses the extra quirk of wit and whimsy which make him something more than a brilliant and powerful orator—a speaker intensely human who can present human truths in a human way.

His ten years' service upon the bench in Massachusetts, his varied experiences in politics and in the practice of law have given him keen insight into the needs of the people. He speaks sanely, yet with a twinkle in his eye, upon problems of general interest.

POSTAL RECEIPTS REACH HIGH PEAK RECORDS HERE SHOW

Postal receipts at the Xenia post-office for the calendar year ending December 31, 1923, totalled $43,476.99, an increase of $15,372.72 over the receipts for the year 1915.

These figures show that the scale of receipts at the local postoffice has been on a gradual upward gradation with the ultimate result that the local branch was recently made a first-class office by the department at Washington, D. C. according to Postmaster Rice.

Money orders and international orders have been increasing considerably also and domestic orders paid during the year totalled over $350,000. Receipts for the first six months of 1924 show a still further increase over 1923, totalling $21,419.87.

Sale of war saving certificates has been suspended according to Mr. Rice effective July 15.

Reason for the suspension, according to word received from the treasury department at Washington, lies in the high rate of interest now being paid on the stamps, 4 1/2 per cent. Last year's certificates of indebtedness showed 2 3/4 per cent indebtedness.

The sale of war savings stamps last year in Ohio was heavy, amounting to over $76,000,000.

BURKE ATTACKS "BOSSSES."

Urbana, O., July 23.—State Senator J. F. Burke, candidate for Republican nomination for governor, attacked Republican "bosses" in his speech here. He charged them with attempting to control the Republican party in Ohio and the state government for their own ends. Declaring his independence of the "bosses" and pledging himself to keep the "bosses" spoils system" out of the state government if he is elected, Burke asserted he was under obligations to none of them.

MAN HURT WHILE BEING RESCUED

Cleveland, O., July 23.—One man was injured and fourteen others were rescued from the roof of a burning rooming house here early today. The injured man, M. A. Skelly, 50, stuck his head out of a window just as firemen were erecting a ladder to it. He was taken to a hospital where it was learned the wound was not serious.

All of the men were awakened by Jim Redmond, who being unable to sleep, was reading and upon investigating the smell of smoke, found the entire lower half of the house in flames.

STRAW HAT IS ANCIENT HEADPIECE EVEN IF IT FAILS TO SHOW THE AGE

The straw hat is as old as civilization, says an exchange, and a gentleman in the back of the house arises to remark that a lot of them look their age.

Yet this statement was not contrived as a hook upon which to hang an ancient and poorly timed jest. The history of the straw hat piece is said to actually antedate the Pharaohs, although records do not show that King Tut's last year straw was found on a peg in his death chamber.

However Egyptians toiling along the Nile to contrive the pyramids and other wonders are known to have used hats woven from reeds to shelter them from the Egyptian sun. Antigone, daughter of Oedipus in the Greek tragedy of the Periclean age, wore a straw hat while riding a mule to meet her father. History does not say whether the mule also wore a straw bonnet.

Ancient Romans wore the "petasus," described as a hat of pliant materials which could be bent down on all sides. Greeks wore a "kausia" made of bast and straw and worn by both men and women. An ancient statue of the god Mercury in the Vatican wears a marble replica of a straw hat. Hera, the Roman Juno, is also shown in ancient prints wearing a head covering like an inverted peach basket of fine straw.

Sir John Falstaff was said to have left straw hats behind when he died, evidently thinking he would have no further use for them. Shakespeare refers to the straw bonnet in "The Tempest" and Mary Queen of Scots brought straw platters from France in 1552 to teach her subjects the art. The fine braids of Tuscany and Milan now used are evidently examples of hereditary skill first used in making the "petasus."

Chinese and Japanese have been weaving hats from straw and bamboo for years while the first Panama hat is said to have been made by Francisco Delgado, an Ecuadorian, in 1629. The first straw hat in America was made in 1789 by twelve-year-old Betsy Metcalf, Providence, R. I., who made the hat in response to a longing for an imported product in a milliner's window.

Now the straw hat industry in America is said to be worth $20,000,000 annually.

WILMINGTON AND XENIA PIKE TREATED

The work of resurfacing the Xenia Pike out of Wilmington, is in progress. A treatment of oil is applied followed by crushed stone.

Half the highway is treated at a time, and several miles of the first half have been finished.

Trial of the government's suit against the Pan-American oil interests for cancellation of naval oil reserve leases in the Elki Hill district will start Oct. 20 at Los Angeles.

Under a new soviet decree issued at Moscow, divorce can be had within five minutes at a cost of $1.50, provided both parties agree to dissolution of the marriage ties.

Dr. Dudley A. Sargent, 75, of Cambridge, Mass., national authority on physical education, died at the Sargent girls' camp.

Great Northern railway almost doubled its net income in 1923, the annual report revealed.

Three children of John Sheldon were burned to death at Lake Cora, a resort four miles west of Paw Paw, Mich., when the tent in which they had been left was destroyed by fire.

MEN AND WOMEN IN NEWS OF THE DAY.

The French Chamber of Deputies has granted amnesty to ex-Primer Joseph Callaux, one of the world's foremost financiers and politicians, who had been sentenced to two years imprisonment and banishment from Paris for his dealings with the Germans during the World War, which he opposed. For the first time the Newton Centre, Mass., Theological Institute has graduated a woman with a degree of Doctor of Divinity. She is Miss Grace Patton, of Newton Centre. Dr. Arthur T. Dodson, noted scientist of the Liverpool, Eng., University, has reached Washington to exchange views on tidal matters with the Department of Justice. Mrs. John L. Gardner, social leader of Boston and one of the most noted art collectors in America, is seriously ill at her Italian palace in the Fenway section of Boston.

Why Not Save The Difference

That's what McMILLAN offers you, an opportunity to buy good furniture at lower prices, our location is one of the many things that helps us do this, then too, we consider our 28 years in the furniture business an incentive toward knowing furniture values when we see them, we buy right and we sell right, we shop the larger markets intensely for the best that they have to offer and our customers are the ones who profit.

COMPANY L BAND TO START SERIES OF CONCERTS THURSDAY

Xenia business men are sponsoring a series of ten band concerts which will be given throughout the remainder of the summer by the Company L, Military Band, of this city.

Nine concerts will be given Thursday evenings each week on the Court House lawn. The full band consists of twenty-five pieces. W. I. Davis is the leader and A. R. Jones, manager of the organization.

The band, which has been organized and practicing for the last year, has furnished the music for several local events in the last few months. Some of the best of the city's musicians are members of the organization and Matt Kump, veteran bass drummer of the former S. V. band plus the drum of the new band.

It is the aim of the band to make it a real community band and they are ready to furnish music for all local events. They have been engaged to furnish the music on Thursday of the Greene County Fair.

The first of the concerts will be held Thursday evening at the Court House and will begin at 8:30 o'clock.

GRAIN PRICES MOCK THE WITCH DOCTORS

A few more blows like those dealt by grain prices recently and the McNary-Haughen price-fixing heresy will go under, leaving naught by a chain of dancing bubbles. Since June 2 an upward sweep has raised wheat prices nearly thirty cents; corn, about thirty-five; rye, nineteen, and oats, thirteen cents. The general trend is carrying with it cotton and livestock prices. Hogs have risen in this swing to $8.10, an increase of $1 per 100 pounds.

More than $1,000,000,000 has been added to the farm wealth of these United States in the last six months by the rise in wheat alone. The agricultural change has been amazing.

The law of supply and demand, sometimes suspended but never repealed, is doing the job. Last year there was overproduction and millions of bushels of "distress wheat" had no market. Ten months ago the Wheat Country was talking itself hoarse about "cutting acreage."

In Kansas City last week best wheat sold at $1.46. Flour rose twenty cents on the barrel to $8, a gain of $1.20 since June 9. Talk of $1.50 wheat has become general. The farmer, with money in sight, if not in hand, is beginning to buy.

The law of supply and demand, of low prices for a plentiful supply and higher prices for a short supply, has done what has been done. It has made the witch doctors look foolish and is taking the stiffening out of the political "farm revolt."

The "drummer" has grabbed his sample case and the salesman has packed his trunks, and they are heading into the Corn Belt and the Grain Belt as fast as they can get there. They smell the fleshpots of much business in the next six months.

"POOR LO" NOT UP TO TRICKS OF TRADE

The American Indian has never been noted for his commercial perspicacity. In the old days they sold their lands for glass beads and calico. Even today most of them have to depend upon the guardianship of the United States Government to protect them from being fleeced of their possessions. A tribe living near the Canadian border in New York State is at present engaged rather extensively in the business of smuggling aliens into the United States. The market price for such services is about $35 a head; yet Poor Lo is doing it at anything from twenty-five cents to a dollar. In other words, the white brother is exploiting him as of yore. It might be well if the United States Government, as guardian and protector of the Indian, would look into this particular case.

ANTI-RADICALISM

For the ninth or tenth time the English Labor Government has been defeated on a parliamentary vote. Still, Prime Minister MacDonald does not resign, and no one seriously expects him to. This sort of thing could not go on in the French Parliament. There a defeat is a defeat; it indicates a lack of confidence, and the Premier must at least go through the motions of resigning. The Labor Government argument is that it is admittedly in a minority and that it cannot be expected to carry all its measures. Its strength in Parliament is no less just because the Liberals, who have no part in the Government, decide to swing with the Conservatives. This is not very convincing, but it is tolerated for practical purposes. It also gives the Laborites the advantage of being able to pick the moment for resigning and the occasion, may offer itself at any moment. In theory, Parliament has the power to throw the Government out. In practice, the Labor Government will throw itself out when it gets ready.

ANY WAY TO KEEP FROM PAYING

A month ago the German Nationalists were demanding the scalp of Foreign Minister Stresemann. They had opposed the Dawes program during the election campaign, and Stresemann had accepted it; hence, ostensibly, their opposition to him. With the allied maneuverings preliminary to the London conference, however, it seemed possible that the Dawes plan might be lost in the shuffle. Then the Nationalists began howling for the Dawes plan, and Stresemann, logically, became persona grata with them. Still, they could not give up their aspiration to get a scalp of some kind or other; so now they are after that of Chancellor Marx. Their game becomes reasonably clear. They have never in reality been opposed to the Dawes program, but they want a place in the Government. The Chancellor's job will suit them as well as the Foreign Minister's—if not better. Whatever happens, they want to give Von Tirpitz a ride.

YOUR FATHER

Some will cheat for a profit's sake
And some will utter a lie;
Some for the dollars they hope to make
Will tempt you to sell or buy;
But your father will whisper his Counsel true
Not for advantage, but all for you.
Strangers for favor will seek to please
And flatter for selfish ends;
But, oh, beware of such men as these!
They may or may not be friends,
But whenever your father says
"Don't" or "do,"
The profit he seeks is all for you.

You may think him harsh. You may think him stern.
You may think him cold and gruff;
But never he falsely deals you'll learn
When you know him well enough.
He would safely guide you life's pathway through
And his only thought is what's best for you.

Think of this as you go along:
Some would injure for gain;
Some for a profit would do you wrong
And bring you to needless pain.
But your father is there, the one counselor who thinks not of himself when he speaks, but you.

THE FARMER: "WHY DIDN'T I HAVE HIM COMPETE IN THE OLYMPIC GAMES?"

1904-Twenty Years Ago-1924

It is doubtful if Xenia ever before had an as largely attended and enthusiastic audience in the interest of temperance as the open air meeting which took place in front of the court house Saturday evening.

"Camp Comfort," has been established at the Neff Park by a party of Xenia girls. They have their large tents which they have pitched at a picturesque

Today's Talks

ON GIVING IN

There are two kinds of fighters: one who fights for a principle and one who fights for his own selfish aims. He who fights for principle may lose many an early skirmish and come to great discouragement, but sooner or later he will win.

It is the man who fights for a principle who usually gives in and sacrifices his personal wishes and ambitions that he may win later with the idea for which he stands.

This giving in when all looks dark is one of the tests of greatness and genuineness.

No one wins all the time. The hero of the hour is usually exactly that.

It is sometimes best to let the crowd have its way, for you to step aside and wait. Crowds always disperse. You may lead the next crowd! Another thing: it takes courage of a rare order to give in and let someone else, for instance, take the thing that you aimed to take.

But it pays to abnegate yourself. It pays to abide your time. It is an act of wisdom and good sense to give in. It means that you have vision and that your heart is sound.

And how often it turns out that the blunders of those who have thrust us aside have really brought us forward with the ideas that we have held dear and sacred.

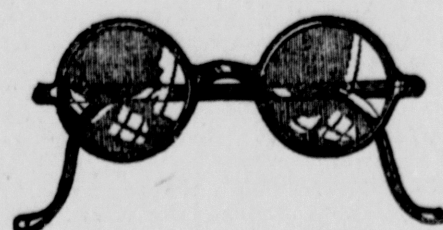

Learn to never mind! Learn to pass on. Learn to give in—and smile as you do it.

GROCEER THANKFUL

"I had been sick nearly 20 years with stomach trouble and was slowly starving to death as everything I ate caused terrible gas and pain and my food did not digest. I was reduced to 115 pounds. A friend advised me to take Mayr's Wonderful Remedy to take Mayr's Wonderful Remedy about 4 months ago, which I did and now weigh 151 lbs., and can eat anything. I am very thankful for Mayr's Wonderful Remedy." It removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract, and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded at Sayre & Hemphill's, and druggists everywhere.

FORD BIRTH PLACE OBJECT OF DISPUTE BY RIVAL FACTIONS

Detroit, July 23.—The nice question of whether Springwells or Dearborn township is the birthplace of Henry Ford, whose old home originally straddled Division road, may not be settled until the September meeting of the Springwells Board of Commerce.

In fact, it may never be settled. The board, Springwells city officials and other residents recently debated the question without success. Finally they adjourned until Autumn, deciding to think the matter over during the Summer.

The question arose when T. L. Hinks, chairman of the publicity committee of the board, suggested that Springwells further adorn its "Welcome to Springwells—Drive Slow" signs with "The Birthplace of Henry Ford."

Mr. Hinks opined that Springwells would get as much free advertising from the plan as would Mr. Ford.

"Why, I thought Henry was born in Dearborn," suggested someone, "leastwise Dearborn claims that. Can there be a mistake?"

"He was born in Dearborn Township, all right," sighed one of the old-timers grudgingly.

"Henry Ford's birthplace is at the southwest corner of Division road and Ford road and that is in Springwells," conceded Mr. Hinks.

"But it used to be across the street," said William T. Gregory, of the Ford Motor Company, vice-president of the board and acting chairman. "Mr. Ford had it moved."

"Well it wasn't exactly like that," spoke up the old-timer. "Truth of the matter is, the house used to stand in the center where Division road now runs. The room where Ford was born was in Dearborn Township, the kitchen, dining room and parlor were in Springwells. Ford had it moved into Springwells."

"Equally speaking, a man's birthplace is where his parents were domiciled at the time of his birth," said Frederick B. Brown, Republican candidate for Prosecutor.

BECOMES HEATED
"And, geographically speaking, his birthplace is now in Springwells," argued Mr. Hinks, from the standpoint of a publicity agent.

"And, financially speaking, Henry can have his birthplace any place he wants to," mused the old timer.

The argument became so general and heated that Chairman Gregory suggested it might well rest until the first cool Autumn evening next September.

In the meantime, motorists who ignore the "Slow" welcome signs will be fined in Dearborn if they are speeding on one side of the road while Springwells will claim those going in the opposite direction.

Health Hints by the Father of Physical Culture

BERNARR MACFADDEN

The quiet content, the animated expression, the satisfaction with itself and with its surroundings, alternating with good healthy fits of crying, are unmistakable characteristics of a healthy baby.

The aspect of a child in ill health is so different that it should leave no room for doubt as to its condition.

The position assumed by the infant when it is suffering from any disease is something a mother must carefully consider. When a child is in pain, or is feverish, it usually tosses and turns about, even in its sleep. When it is awake it is insistent in its desire to be lifted out of its crib, walked about the room, or put down again.

However, not infrequently, the beginning of acute disease is marked by a certain form of collapse, in which the child may lie stupid and inattentive for hours at a time. In prolonged illnesses, where the exhaustion is great, and in severe acute conditions, the child may lie with its face turned toward the ceiling, at times scarcely breathing.

If a child attempts to assume a sitting posture while ill, it is usually an evidence of difficulty in breathing, probably as a result of some inflammatory condition of the respiratory tract.

If a child sleeps with its mouth open, and head thrown back, it is likely that he may suffer from some enlargement of the tonsils.

A constant desire on the part of a child to bury its face in a mother's lap, or in the pillow, often indicates irritation from the effects of light in the eyes, or even the beginning of some inflammatory process.

The color of the skin is frequently a definite index to the state of the child's health. When discolored and yellow, it usually indicates some disorder of the liver, or gall-bladder, of which jaundice is a prominent symptom.

If the skin of the face is of a bluish cast, it may indicate deficient aeration of the blood, or inability of the heart to pump the blood with sufficient vigor to the extremities.

When the digestion is disordered, there is very frequently a purplish tint around the mouth and eyes.

MRS. GEORGE DAVIS DIES HERE TUESDAY

Mrs. George Davis, of Goes Station, passed away at the Espey Hospital, this city, late Tuesday afternoon, following an operation performed a week ago.

Mrs. Davis' maiden name was Clara Gordon, and she was born at Trebleton. She is survived by her husband, George Davis, three children by a previous marriage, the Misses Ruth and Helen and Wallace McMillan, one sister, Mrs. James Ryan, of West Second Street, this city, and one brother, C. W. Gordon of Waynesville.

Funeral services will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Ryan on West Second Street Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock, with interment at Beaver Cemetery.

BRAZILIAN REVOLT DISSOLVING WHILE "ENEMY" SOLDIERS FRATERNIZE ON LINES

By DANIEL CAREY

On Board The Pan American, Enroute To Rio De Janeiro, July 23.—The Brazilian revolt's days are numbered and the movement, purely military, is breaking down so rapidly the soldiers and officers of the rival forces are fraternizing on the so-called battle line.

Reports of big battles at Sao Paulo are false. These assertions are based on the most reliable information and conversation with persons who have been in the revolutionary zone, which is virtually confined to the limits of Sao Paulo.

The president of Sao Paulo state who fled in early days of the revolution, has taken refuge on the warship Minas Geraes. He escaped from the city in disguise after the rebel coup the morning of July 5, and proceeded to Santos where the Minas Geraes was then at anchor.

The rebels and federals are unable to distinguish each other as all wear identical uniforms. While the revolt is merely a military movement and has no support from the civilian population, it takes on some seriousness owing to the fact that one in every twenty of population wears a military uniform. I learned today of one of the dramatic incidents that marked the opening of the revolution. The American colony at Sao Paulo gave a ball the night of July 4, at the Hotel Esplanada which was attended by all the high military officials and civilian officials.

The dancing continued into the morning. At 3 o'clock on the morning of the fifth while the dancing was in full swing, word was brought to General Noronha that an important message for him awaited delivery on the hotel piazza.

As he stepped from the door to the spot where he had been directed, a ring of bayoneted guns surrounded him. He surrendered without a struggle and was taken to jail. That was the first intimation the government had of the revolution. Later in the day other officials who could, made their way out of the city and left it in the hands of the rebels.

At Sao Paulo and Santos, the banks, stock exchange and customs houses are closed. Casualties have been few on either side. Reports that 3,000 were killed in one battle last week at Sao Paulo were utterly without foundation.

XENIA WILL NOT BE REPRESENTED

Xenia Banks were not represented Wednesday at the conference to be held in Columbus for the creation of a corporation backed by various banks throughout the state to loan $1,000,000 to help rebuild property devastated by the tornado in the northern part of Ohio.

George Little, president of the Xenia National Bank of this city, who was among the 100 bankers called by the State Relief Commission, announced that he would not attend. He asserted that a rehabilitation financing scheme was in the making but as yet, no definite plans had been laid for its conclusion.

THE WORST IS YET TO COME—

GIRL DIES WHEN STRUCK BY AUTO

Dayton, July 23.—Evelyn Lee, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Lee, of 632 Huffman Avenue, died at 8 o'clock last night as a result of injuries received when she was hit by an automobile in front of her home.

She succumbed in a police ambulance while on the way to Miami Hospital. Corwin E. Woods, 22, 1706 Huffman Avenue, driver of the car, was taken to police headquarters where he underwent a preliminary examination by police officials and County Prosecutor A. H. Scharrer. Several witnesses were also examined.

The inquest resulted in a report of death by accident. Woods was not held.

HAY FEVER WEEDS SHOULD BE CUT TO CHECK DISEASE NOW

Hay fever, as defined in the July issue of "Hygeia" is a disease caused for the most part by irritation from plant pollens. Hay fever has three forms—the early spring, the early summer, and the late summer or fall types, and the symptoms are essentially the same in each. The autumn form is by far the most common, although some people are susceptible to more than one variety.

Ragweeds, of which there are several species, most commonly cause this disease, at least in the eastern and northern United States, although pollens from a great variety of plants are known to produce hay fever occasionally.

Uncultivated areas such as roadsides, vacant lots and fence corners are frequented by the undesirable ragweed. The flower from about the middle of August to the middle of October, unless killed earlier by frost. During the flowering season each normal plant produces billions of pollens.

More than 1,000,000 persons in the United States suffer annually from hay fever. Depending on the susceptibility of the patient and the proportion of pollen in the air, the attacks vary in severity from the symptoms of a mild cold to complete incapacitation.

Ragweeds may be prevented from growing by cultivation or by thick seeding with clover. Areas impractical for cultivation, such as road sides and other waste places, should be mowed before the plants pollinate. Weed-cutting is a humanitarian activity because it saves suffering, and health officers in cities should take care that the grass and weed ordinances are enforced.

NATIVES OF BRAZIL STAGE REVOLT AND COFFEE GOES UP

Natives of Brazil, South America, act to stir up a revolution and citizens of Xenia and way points pay, the ill.

The old morning and evening cups of coffee move into the aristocratic high-price class through the revolt being merrily waged up and down around Sao Paulo by happy natives. A one cent increase in coffee prices announced by dealers here, Wednesday is traced to the Brazilian revolution, where natives are too busy to attend to coffee bean crops and exports. The price increase is general, it is said. Practically all coffee brands used here from Brazil, merchants say, and the revolt has caused a considerable curtailment of the supply in the last thirty days. Merchants hope the revolt will end before the Brazil nuts are due.

CRUMBLING SHORE DOOMS HISTORIC OLD LIGHTHOUSE

Wilmington, Del., July 23—Hendon Lighthouse, which has guided ships by Delaware Bay since 1764, needs destruction at any moment, according to Captain John C. Gray, seaper of the light.

It is the second oldest lighthouse in America and was constructed by the British to direct ships to the colonies, but was partly destroyed by British troops who landed there in 1777.

Originally built 1400 feet from the shore line, only eleven feet of land lie between it and the water now. Captain Gray said he had seen a good storm take away more than that at one sweep and predicted that "one more good nor-easter" would end the historic landmark's career.

PRISONERS SAW BARS AND ESCAPE

Akron, July 22—Walter Williams and W. T. Harrison sawed their way through the bars of the city prison at night and made their escape. They had been provided with saws, wire and rope by Harrison's wife, who had made recent visits to her husband.

Williams was arrested in Pittsburgh and brought here on a charge of stealing a motorcycle. He was under bond of $1500 for the grand jury and should have been in the county jail, according to officials. Harrison is from Ogden, Utah and wanted there on a charge of forgery. Mrs. Harrison was arrested this morning and made a full confession of her part in the escape.

WHAT IS SUCCESS?

By ROGER W. BABSON

World-Famous Statistician and Business Authority

II.—THE SIX LAWS OF SUCCESS

Intelligence does not consist of college diplomas. Memory is not intelligence. A phonograph or dictaphone is not intelligent. A great public library may contain a tremendous number of facts, but it is not intelligent. Once Mr. Rockefeller was asked to whom he owed his intelligence. He replied:

"I owe such intelligence as I have to my father and mother. They were the ones who trained me. I remember that when I entered business, my father loaned me $1,000 at 10 per cent interest. When loaning me the money, he gave me a little talk on the fundamentals of credit and how to establish a credit. This information was the basis of my fortune. He not only instructed me as to the necessity of being able to meet my obligations, but he tested me thoroughly in the process."

THE LOAN IS CALLED

Whenever there was a pinch in the money market, my father would call my loan. The first time, I was unable to meet it, and he gave me a terrible scolding. The next time he called it, I was able to pay one-half of the thousand dollars back, and he again talked sharply to me. In a few weeks, however, he came back to reloan me the $500 which I had paid him. After that I was in shape always to meet my obligations, and whenever he called for the thousand dollars I was able to pay him. Only by such tests and training is intelligence really taught. Intelligence cannot be learned from books or lectures. Teachers and tutors may indicate the way to travel, but the travelling must be done by you and by me."

Intelligence is the third wall of the success structure. But as Rockefeller indicated, it is the intelligence which comes from experience and training. Hence the importance of laboratory work and the inspection of plants in connection with the education of men for life. Books are useful as tools; but tools become a help only as men through experience and practice learn to use them.

AN ASSISTANT TO EDISON

On November 11, 1859, there was born in London a baby boy, who was destined to come to America and develop the greatest electric power system in the world. The boy was named Samuel Insull, and he landed in America February 28, 1881. For some time he worked in New York in helping Mr. Edison develop the lighting system of that city. It was in 1889, however, before Mr. Insull's services were really recognized, and 1892 before he was given his great opportunity as the President of the Chicago Edison Company.

Many men have been connected with the development of the electrical industry. The older readers of this article will remember names like Whitney, Widener, Yerkes, and Brady. These and their associates all belonged to the old school, who seemed to care little for the public. Samuel Insull, however, developed a new order in the electrical world.

A DREAMER SUCCEEDS

He was the first great promoter in the industry who seemed to have imagination and vision. Many have called Insull a dreamer; others have mistaken his initiative for recklessness. Few men, however, have done more constructive and creative work or overcome more technical and psychological difficulties. When today there is a great meeting of men in the electrical industry two names stand out in prominence, Insull of Chicago and Dowe of Detroit. When the outstanding characteristics of these men are discussed all agree that their success is due to their initiative and imagination.

SALES $1,600,000 A WEEK

Samuel Insull started as an office boy at $1.25 a week. When he was given the presidency of the Little electrical company in Chicago, the total output of the company was only four thousand horsepower. To-day, Insull's power stations have a generating capacity of about 700,000 horsepower, and use between three and four hundred tons of coal a day, in addition to the output of numerous water powers; he employs some 20,000 people, and the income from the sale of his power reaches the prodigious sum of about a million dollars a week.

I once asked Dr. Steinmetz, the little giant of Schenectady, to what new invention he was devoting his energies. He replied that he didn't have much time to devote to new inventions, for it kept him busy keeping up with Insull. Insull was continually building bigger power stations where by it was necessary to transmit bigger and bigger voltages. "It takes all my time," said Dr. Steinmetz, "to design insulators big enough to take safe care of the power which Insull is developing."

MAKING DREAMS COME TRUE

Insull was the first electrical engineer who had both the initiative to install a big single unit to supply almost an entire state and also the persistence to bring his dreams true. It is one thing to plan one's work and another thing to work one's plan. There are many men to-day who have integrity and industry and even intelligence who do not succeed. They lack the fourth quality of initiative—the ability to start new enterprises, blaze new trails, and perform new services.

Next to my father, I probably owe most to George H. Lorimer, Editor of The Saturday Evening Post. Mr. Lorimer is the son of that famous Baptist preacher, the late Dr. Lorimer of Tremont Temple, Boston. The son—like his father—is a man of the highest principles, tempered with a Yankee shrewdness keen as steel. When he left college he went to Chicago and soon became secretary to the founder of Armour & Company. In due course he became head of an important department of the Armour plant. After a time, disregarding Mr. Armour's solemn warning that he would scratch a poor man's back for the rest of his life, he resigned his position and went to Boston, where he became a reporter on The Boston Post. Feeling the need of further training he spent a year or two at Colby College, where he specialized in literary and economic studies.

THE SECRET OF LORIMER'S SUCCESS

If you will ask Mr. Cyrus H. Curtis, or Mr. Edward Bok, or Collins, the Business Manager, or Boyd, the Advertising Manager, what is the secret of Lorimer's success, they will reply, "Intensity and concentration." He does only one thing, and he thinks only one thing. It is impossible to get him interested in any outside enterprise. He has got his mind on The Saturday Evening Post, and nothing can swerve him to the right or left. He has been offered all kinds of honors, directorships in great corporations and the like, but without avail. Banks have tried to get him to act on their boards; the Government has offered him honors, but like Saul of Tarsus he says, "This one thing I do."

One day I asked one of his acquaintances why it is that Lorimer doesn't play golf. The reply was, "Lorimer won't do anything unless he can do it well. He hasn't the time to learn to play golf well, and consequently he won't play it at all." This same principle underlies everything that he does. Other ministers' sons have become great captains of industry, because, like Lorimer, they combine the religious emotions of the father and the hard-headed thriftiness of the mother. But, none has succeeded so well in the most difficult business of publishing. Lorimer has not only become a great success, but he has attained success in a most difficult industry. His success has been due to his intensity. Hence, intensity or concentration is one of the essentials to success. Whether one is in a profession, in manufacturing, or in business—indeed, in the work of the mother in the home—concentration on one task is necessary for success.

A SMALL PHOTOGRAPHER ARRIVES!

Three names are invariably linked together, "Rochester," "Photography," "George Eastman." Here's a man who started in the most humble way possible in an almost unknown business. This business he developed from almost nothing to one of the greatest industries in America. The word "Kodak," which he originated, has become a household name, and his films can be purchased in every city and hamlet all over the world.

When he started in the photographic business, only wet plates were used. Then dry plates were developed, and he added to his business by making these dry plates. In the course of his work something happened whereby the process was lost. He determined to find it again. He travelled, he studied, he sought the solution of the dry plate problem. He became intensely interested in photography in all its branches. He was very eager to perfect photography. Finally, he hit upon the film and then the transparent film. For years men experimenting with moving photography had been waiting for the transparent film. Eastman's interest in photography really made possible the moving picture industry as well as brought millions to himself.

MILLIONS FROM HIS HOBBY

After Eastman had made his untold millions, however, he did not lose interest in photography. He is as much interested in it to-day as ever. He loves to take pictures on every occasion. The great moving picture theatre, the most beautiful in the world, which he has erected at Rochester and given to the people, is simply the result of his interest in the film. He loves photography in every branch.

I have been personally interested in George Eastman because he is the famous "Mr. Smith," who was so generous in his gifts to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, my alma mater. Eastman is consequently always discussed at Alumni Meetings and class gatherings at the Institute. He has employed a great many graduates, especially men graduating from one of the chemical courses. Ask any of them the reason for George Eastman's success, and he will tell you that it is due to his great interest in his work, and to his broad sympathy and human understanding. Yet all of the men referred to in this chapter were interested in their work and in other men. Interest in one's work and sympathetic understanding of other men seem to be an essential to the structure of success. Without a real love for one's daily job, success in that job—whether it's running a store or a home—is impossible.

SIX "LAWS" OF SUCCESS

All of these six qualities, Integrity, Industry, Intelligence, Imagination, Intensity and Interest, are necessary for one hundred per cent. success, and it is absolutely essential to possess most of them to a very highly developed degree. A study of successful men and women shows this clearly to be true. In many instances these men have developed most highly the factor in which they were weakest when starting out in life. Every young man and woman should study these six qualities and endeavor to develop them all, but especially the one in which he or she is weakest.

TAKE OUT EXTRA

LIFE INSURANCE

TO COVER YOUR INHERITANCE TAX

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

What are the inheritance laws of your state?

Before you make your will have your attorney look up the inheritance laws and interpret to you their effect on your estate.

Inheritance taxes must be paid in cash—part of the tax at once and the remainder within a year after your death.

When the greater part of the estate is real property or a business this large cash payment may effect a serious loss and hardship.

After getting all necessary information consider taking out additional life insurance to the amount of your probable tax. By this method you will provide your family with the cash needed for payment of the inheritance tax and will insure keeping of your estate intact.

SUPREME COURT GETS LIQUOR CASE

Columbus, O., July 22—R. P. Conkling, Greenville tobacco dealer, today carried to the state supreme court his fight for a complete reversal of the Greenville court action under which he was fined $1,000 for alleged possession of intoxicating liquor which he contends was for use in treating tobacco.

His attorneys filed a motion asking the state supreme court to order the Darke county court of appeals to certify its record. The appellate court found that Conkling had been convicted on a technicality and that the fine was excessive, but it merely recommends that the $1,000 be returned to Conkling.

Conkling's place of business was raided and the liquor confiscated by "card deputies," he stated.

CHURCH CONTRIBUTES

Trinity M. E. Church has contributed a special gift of over $100.00 toward the fund for relief in the tornado district in Northern Ohio.

The amount was raised in the church congregation.

MODISH MITZI—The Goofer Prepares For His Vacation

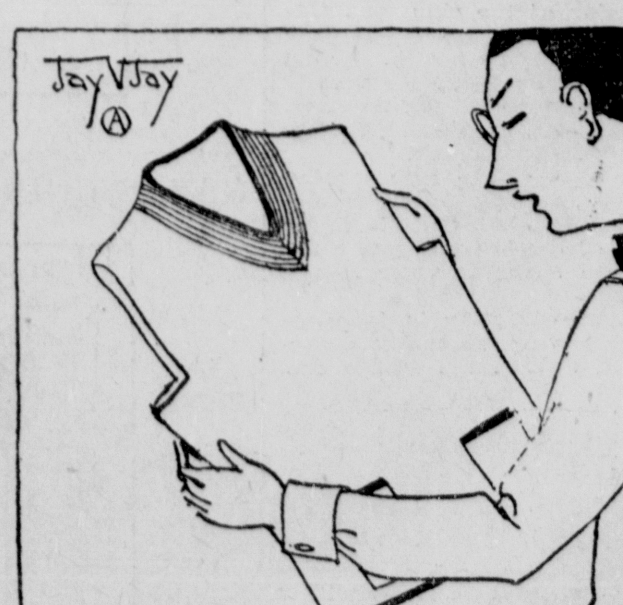

The Goofer isn't the sort of person who devotes continuous and concentrated attention to his clothes so he was lucky this notice caught his eye. He really needs a few things for the country. Notice his tie. It is a striped silk poplin which can be bought in one's college or regimental colors.

This sleeveless pull-over sweater is a comfortable garment. It comes in blazer stripes of blue and tan and is worn most appropriately with plaid knickers of imported white linen. The Goofer wonders rather gloomily if this or any other costume would help him with his golf—probably not!

These golf hose come from England as all proper woolen stuffs do. The Goofer is wearing are white with colored garters. Those in his hand are a ribbed mixture with colored tops. His sport shoes have plain toes and are of tan elk with brown calf saddles and rubber soles.

Here is another sleeveless pull-over sweater of the sort that Englishmen like and that is being much worn in America this year. It is of blue wool flecked with white and has a blue and white striped neckband. Shall he take this or a tan one. Should one or should one not be conservative? The Goofer is undecided.

CARPENTIER AND TUNNEY READY TO GO

New York, July 23. - Gene Tunney, America's junior lightweight champion and Georges Carpentier, French idol, ended their long training grind today in preparing for their 15 round fight at the Polo grounds tomorrow night.

Tunney finished preparatory work and will rest until tomorrow when he leaves for Manhattan. Carpentier wound up his training last night in his outdoor ring at Great Neck. Each is fit and ready. Admirers of Tunney say he never looked better. He is working hard. He wants to win to advance another step in his cherished ambition to face Jack Dempsey for the heavyweight crown.

Bootlegger Testifies.

Canton, O., July 23. - Harry Bouklias, self-styled bootlegger, testified before a jury here that he had been a partner of E. E. Curtis, former safety director, on trial on charges of bribery, in the moonshine business, and that Curtis had shared in profits of from $15,000 to $20,000. Bouklias said that he had acted as collector of the money and that he had also collected money from saloonkeepers.

MONDAY AND TUESDAY NOT HOTTEST DAYS

Those who backed Monday and Tuesday as the hottest days in the year, regardless of thermometers and weather reports, were off in their calculations, although there seemed ample room for such a belief.

The maximum temperature for Monday and Tuesday was 84 degrees, according to United States Weather Bureau records.

The minimum occurred in the morning during the brief rainy spell when 71 degrees was registered.

Prostrations resulting from the heat, although they appeared probable, were conspicuous by their absence according to hospital reports.

RICHMOND RED SOX WILL MEET LOCALS SUNDAY

The Xenia Merchants will stack up against one of the strongest colored teams in Indiana Sunday afternoon when they play the Richmond Red Sox at Dickerson Park.

Fans who attended last Sunday's game were pleased with the form shown by the Merchants although the game was a trifle slow due to the heavy hitting on the part of both teams.

Sunday's game promises to be a fast contest and with the services of Young, third baseman on a leading Dayton team, who has been secured by the management to hold down the hot corner for the rest of the season, the locals feels that the infield is alright.

Carl Lewis, leading twirler for the Merchants, promises to be back in shape by Sunday.

The Richmond Red Sox have been performing at Exhibition Park in Indiana throughout the present year and Sunday will mark their first invasion of foreign territory.

The local management has gone to considerable expense in order to bring the Indiana club here and a large crowd is anticipated as both teams have shown great form this season and should put up a regular battle.

RECEIVER TAKES CHARGE OF AFFAIRS

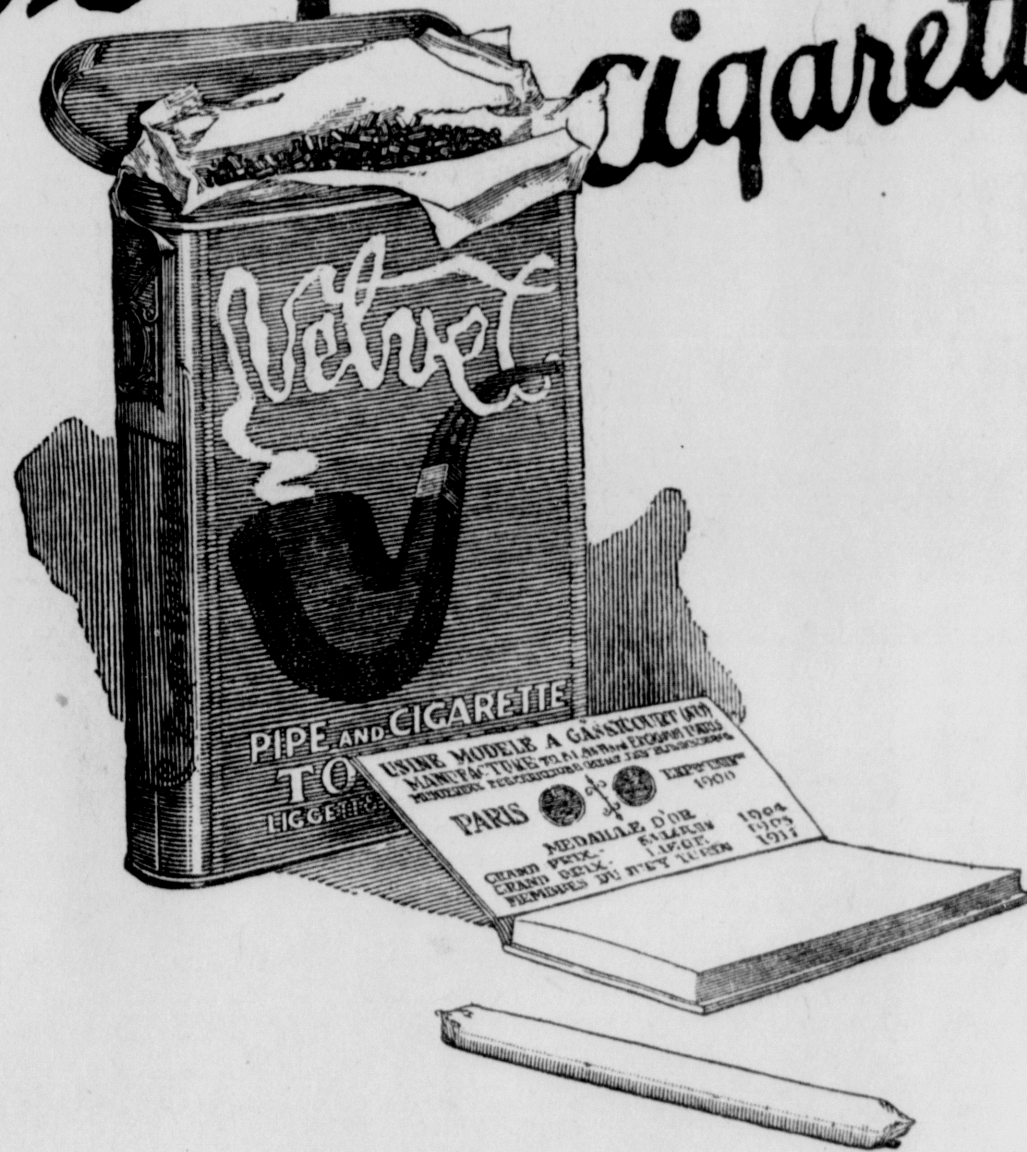

Columbus, O., July 23. - Attorney H. L. Hopwood, named personal receiver for Louis W. Josephson, who is at liberty under $25,000 bond on charges of embezzling funds of the Ohio Industrial Endowment Company, of which he was vice president, today assumed control of Josephson's affairs.

A temporary restraining order granted in common pleas court, prevents Josephson from disposing of any personal property.

Children Fatally Burned.

Gallipolis, O., July 23. - Joseph Strait, 3, son of J. L. Strait, farmer living near Bethesda, was burned to death and a daughter and another son were probably fatally burned when fire destroyed the Strait home. Strait attempted to start a fire in the kitchen stove with kerosene when it ignited, totally destroying the residence. Strait and his wife were slightly burned in their efforts at saving the lives of their children.
